LABOR LEADERS IN CONTEMPT

Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison Sentenced.

Washington.—In court contempt proceedings, presided by the National Association of Manufacturers, President Gompers and John Mitchell, vice-president, and Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, were sentenced today to jail terms by Justice Daniel Thew Wright, federal judge in the District of Columbia. An appeal was taken and the labor leaders were released under bond.

The alleged contempt was against an order of Justice Gould an associate on the Supreme bench of the District Court, granting a temporary injunction against the publication by the labor organization of the Buck Stove and Range Company of St. Louis, in the "We do not patronize" list in the American Federationist, the labor paper.

Mr. Gompers edits the paper. Mr. Mitchell is vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, which supports the publication, and Mr. Morrison is secretary.

Under the sentence by Justice Wright, Mr. Gompers is to spend twelve months in jail; Mr. Mitchell nine months, and Mr. Morrison six months.

From the decision of this court appeals will be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States.

INSURANCE COMPANY WINS

Demurrer in Night Rider Case Sustained by Federal Judge.

Louisville, Ky.—The North River and Globe and Butler's insurance companies won a signal victory Wednesday in the United States Court when Judge Walter Evans sustained the demurrers in the action of the Lockett Wake Tobacco Company against them for insurance aggregating $9,000, growing out of losses sustained by fire January 2 and 3, 1908, when the night riders made a raid on Russellville. Judge Evans will give a written judgment in the suit Thursday. The decision of Judge Evans is the upholding of the riot clause in the insurance policies, which protects the insurance companies from paying losses sustained as the result of riots. The plaintiffs contended that the fire was not the result of a riot or uprising of the people in Russellville, and that the insurance companies were acquainted with the conditions in the tobacco growing districts when they issued the policies.

THOMAS DIXON FACES SUIT

Author of "The Traitor" in $50,000 Slander Charge.

Raleigh, N. C.—Thomas Dixon, Jr., has instructed his attorneys in this city to accept service in his name in the $50,000 slander suit brought against him several weeks ago by ex-Judge Montgomery, of Raleigh. This suit, it will be remembered, grew out of Dixon's reply to Montgomery's public statement that Dixon had brought "The Traitor" South on the eve of the presidential election for political purposes.

On account of the acceptance of service by the author of "The Traitor," the case will come before the Federal Court next month in Raleigh, and it is expected that the trial will be one of the most sensational in the history of the South. Dixon, like Montgomery, is a native of North Carolina.

One of the principal points to be decided upon by the jury will be whether "The Traitor" deserves the attack made upon it by Montgomery.

OIL COMPANIES ARE OUSTED

Fired and Fined by the Supreme Court of Missouri.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Declaring that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Republic Oil Company of Ohio and the Waters-Pierce Oil Company of Missouri had conspired and combined to monopolize the oil business in the State, the Supreme Court of Missouri Wednesday issued a decree ousting all three from the commonwealth and fined them $50,000 each.

The decree against the Waters-Pierce Company is tempered by the proviso that it may continue business if, by March 1, 1909, it can show to the court that it has taken steps to operate as an independent concern and has satisfied the judgment against it. The other companies are given until March 1, 1909, to wind up their affairs in the State.

Bar Liquor in Christening Warship.

Newport News, Va.—If the plans of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Delaware are successful, the giant 20,000-ton battleship Delaware, which will be launched here on February 5, will be christened with water.

The battleship Kentucky, the only vessel of her class ever christened with water, had hundreds of bottles of whiskey broken against her hull by Kentuckians when she went down the ways.

WE'RE ALL ON THE "COMMISSION TO IMPROVE THE CONDITION OF THE FARMER"

BRYAN STILL IN POLITICS

Will Promise No Man That He Will Not Be a Candidate.

Philadelphia.—W. J. Bryan arrived here today to lecture tonight at the commencement exercises of a business college. When asked concerning his attitude toward another Democratic nomination for the presidency, Mr. Bryan said:

"All I can say about 1912 is that I hope it will never be necessary for me to run for office again. I prefer to do my work as a private citizen."

"When asked whether I would refuse in advance even being a candidate again, I have said that I would not promise anybody not to be a candidate for any office."

"I will add one other thing, and that is that I am still in politics and expect to be for about twenty years, and I shall make it convenient to be present whenever and wherever a man or group of men attempt to Republicanize the Democratic party. Six million five hundred thousand voters of the Democracy endorsed the platform adopted at Denver."

PARENTS LET CHILDREN DIE

Intimate Associate of Henry George in Poverty.

Los Angeles, Cal.—In a little furniture-bare cottage at 318 Morton avenue, Pasadena, the rooms of which are heaped with books and reams of typewritten manuscript, one child is dead, physicians are fighting for the life of a second and a third is critically ill from starvation.

The father of the child admits that while he and his wife have busied themselves writing books and treatises on balanced land culture, that the children went hungry.

The little fellow who is dead had not tasted food for three days, and for weeks before that time had little nourishment. The other child had fared no better.

The father is Warren Edward Brokaw, once editor of the Single Tax Courier of St. Louis, and intimate associate of Henry George and recording secretary of the single tax conference of 1893 in Chicago.

"We got down to the last drop of poverty in an attempt to work our theory of balanced land tenure," said Brokaw. "We have had little food. Had we had food last week our child would have been alive now."

"MAN CATCHING" CONDEMNED

Philadelphia Rabbi Says They Deck Out to Entrap Victim.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Man catching" by frivole women was deplored in a sermon by Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf at Keneseth Prater Temple. This, he declared, was accountable for a good portion of American divorces. The rabbi said:

"From the day the daughter enters young womanhood, the sob thought of many homes is man catching. No artifice is shunned that shall enable the gorgeously decked out huntress quickest to entrap her victim."

"There is probably no thought which occupies a young society woman more than that of being married; there is probably no thought which occupies her less than that of being happy when married or making her husband happy."

Can't Sell Malt Liquor.

Athens, Ga.—A decision of the State Court of Appeals handed down Thursday specifically settled two important points bearing on the prohibition laws of Georgia. One was that the sale of malt liquors to minors whether intoxicating or not is unlawful. The other was that the sale of malt liquors is prima facie unlawful, and the defendant must prove that malt beverage sold is not intoxicating. The opinion means that the State has only to prove the sale of a malt liquor to make it an unlawful act.

COTTON GINNED 11,892,115.

Compares With 9,204,070 to Same Date in 1907.

Washington.—A total of 11,892,115 running bales of cotton ginned from the growth of 1908 to December 13, against 9,204,070 at the same date of last year, and 27,269 active ginneries, against 27,156 in 1907, were announced by the census bureau in its report Monday. The figures count round bales as half bales, and exclude linters.

The bales ginned to December 13 aggregated 11,112,789 in 1906 and 9,207,819 in 1907.

The total 1907 crop was 11,037,822, of which 84 per cent were ginned to December 13; crop of 1906, 12,083,201, of which 85.6 were ginned to December 13, and crop of 1905, 10,495,103, or 88.6 per cent by December 13.

The report includes 215,029 round bales for 1908, 167,304 for 1907 and 243,096 for 1906.

Sea Island bales included an aggregate of 80,187, by States, as follows: Florida, 31,072; Georgia, 37,956; South Carolina, 11,159.

BURIED ON WEDDING DAY

Young Girl Dies at Sea While Crossing to Her Lover.

New York.—When the big liner Baltic warped into her dock Monday, after one of the most tempestuous voyages of her career, Charles C. Clarke, of Eureka, Utah, learned that the woman he had waited years to wed had died while crossing the ocean to join him in the home he had made for both. The girl, Miss Priscilla Hewison of White Haven, England, was stricken with peritonitis soon after the ship sailed. So rough was the sea that the ship's surgeon found it impossible to perform an operation, and after two days' illness death ended her sufferings. Neither the young woman nor her brother, accompanying her, had money to defray cost of burial ashore, but several first cabin passengers made up a liberal purse and arranged to have the body brought to New York for burial.

HILL BUYS ANOTHER ROAD

Has Acquired the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico Line.

Austin, Tex.—It is reported that J. J. Hill and associates, in addition to the purchase of the Colorado and Southern lines in Texas, have closed deals for the purchase of the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico, which was owned by a syndicate of St. Louis men, and has B. E. Young, chairman of the Rock Island Frisco executive committee, for its president.

This road runs from Alton, a station on the Santa Fe midway between Houston and Galveston, to Brownsville, situated in the lower valley of the Rio Grande, a distance of 312 miles, and has a branch line to Sanford, fifty-three miles long. The acquired road will be extended down the Gulf coast to Tampico, Mexico, it is said.

Mrs. Crane-Chadbourne Put Up Cash.

Chicago.—Upon paying $2,411 in addition to the $70,409.18 she has already paid, Mrs. Emily Crane-Chadbourne obtained possession of the oil paintings, tapestry and bric-a-brac which the government seized last July, when Mrs. Chadbourne smuggled the goods from England. "This is the end of the Chadbourne-Gardner case," said District Attorney Sims. "More than $150,000 has been paid, and I am of the opinion that the ends of justice have been satisfied." There will be no criminal prosecution.

FRANK FEHRINGER TELLS OF COL. RANKIN'S MURDER

Union City, Tenn.—The following is the testimony of Frank Fehrer, the self-confessed night rider, on direct examination:

"I first saw the night riders last summer. I met them in the road near Old Idlewild. When I met them I was not a member of the night riders, but I went with them through to Samburg to Webb's store. I was with Barrett Johnson and two others. All of the night riders were in disguise, but we were not. We were going to the store to keep the Lake county men from coming over here and taking any more Obion county men over there for trial. This was just after Will Watson had been executed. He was charged with whipping Squire Wynne. There were about forty in the gang that night, and all of us were armed."

"I saw them again the next night in Bogus Hollow. I joined the night riders that night and was sworn in by Garrett Johnson, who administered the oath to me."

OATH OF THE NIGHT RIDERS.

"As much as I can remember of the oath it is like this: 'Do you solemnly swear, in the presence of God and these witnesses, that you desire to become a night rider; that you will not write, talk or tell to any one any of the secrets of this order of night riders; that if you do write, talk or tell to any person any of the secrets of this order, we are permitted to do with you as we see fit; for you know death, hell and destruction will be your portion, and that your body will not be buried in a graveyard. Do you willingly and freely submit to all this, so help you God!'"

"We had several meetings after that, and I went to all of them. I have met all of these eight men here now at either one or the other of the meetings which we held."

"We met at the Fitz Smith sawdust pile in September to go on the Freeman road. Arthur Clear was a member of the crowd that night. We went on to Freeman and stopped at a house to get water, and while we were there Morris Pierson had a fight. We carried him out of the house, and after we brought him to by rubbing camphor on him we sent him home with two of the crowd and went on."

"While all of these raids were going on I saw a number of men sworn in as night riders, and I administered the oath to several of them myself."

"Yes, sir, we had a halting sign or pass word that we used when we were out at night, and if we met anybody coming toward us and wanted to know if he was one of us, we would call out, 'Who comes there?' If the man was one of us, he would say 'Seven wonders,' and we would answer, 'I wonder.' We also had a whistle that we used at night. It went like this (indicating), two longs and a short."

NARRATES STORY OF THE MURDER OF RANKIN.

After securing this brief but vivid history of the night riders from Fehrer, Attorney General Caldwell turned directly to the crime for which the defendants are on trial, and asked this question:

"Do you remember the night that Capt. Rankin was killed?"

In answer to this and numerous other questions, the witness said:

"I remember that night very well. On that night we all met at Long Bridge, and from there we went up the Hickman and Dyersburg road until we got to Louis Carpenter's, and then we went under the bluff to Ed Powell's fence and up the road and hitched our horses and met some other fellows there at the corner of the fence where we hitched our horses. From there we went to Ed Powell's and got Ed Powell and took him to Ward's hotel with us for the purpose of having him wake Mr. Ward."

"When we got to the hotel I went behind the house and guarded around there, close to the window, while some of the party went in the room. After they got in there I went in the room, and when I got in there Mr. Rankin was sitting on the side of the bed and Mr. Taylor was standing up, arranging his clothes."

TOOK TAYLOR AND RANKIN WITH THEM.

"We left there then with Mr. Taylor and Mr. Rankin, and took them up to where we had hitched our horses."

"On the way up there we stopped above Powell's house, and Garrett Johnson swore Ed Powell in as a night rider. We went from that point to where the horses were hitched and stayed there an hour or more, and I heard Garrett Johnson and others talking to Mr. Taylor while we were there."

"I heard Garrett Johnson ask Mr. Taylor why he done like he did when the people had hired him to look after the case, and when he found the lake suit pending why did he drop the people and turn to Harris and try to take the people's lake away from them and their homes and everything. He said every time he thought about it he felt like shooting one of them."

"I heard Mr. Taylor explain the way he got the title; that he got it from some heirs that lived in some city or town up in Tennessee."

"We stayed there about an hour, and some of them wanted to whip them and send them home, and some of them wanted to hang them, and some of them wanted to shoot them, but they finally taken and put a rope around Rankin's neck and led him down to Long's Slough, Rayon Deebeln Slough, and when we got down there they threw the rope over the tree and started to hang Rankin."

"I asked him did he want to say something to the Lord. I said, 'They're going to hang you, and if you have got anything to say to the Lord, you had better say it now.'"

"He made some reply that he had done prayed, or was praying. I did not understand just what he said."

BOB HUFFMAN SHOT CAPT. RANKIN.

"They throwed the rope over the tree and I went to walk between Bob Huffman and the tree and Bob Huffman shot him as they were drawing him up on the tree. After that there were several shots fired."

"Col. Taylor was sitting on the ground near where Rankin was hung, on a little root, and just as soon as the first fusillade of shots were fired, Col. Taylor jumped up and jumped in the slough, and they shot several times at him there."

"We thought we had killed Col. Taylor, and I struck a match and looked in to see if I could see him floating around on the water anywhere, but could not see him, and we went back to where Mr. Rankin was, and I struck a match and looked at him. He was lying flat down this way (indicating on his back), with his head lying in his hat, and the blood was running out of his mouth."

"I heard one of the crowd say that they knew he was dead because another one said to him that he had shot him with a round of 38 caliber pistol cartridges. 'Then I heard Sam Applewhite say that he had a load of bicycle bells for him before the shooting, and then after the shooting he said he knowed he was dead because he put a load of bicycle bells in him.'"

"I don't know who put the rope around his neck. When I first saw the rope around his neck Jess Carter and Tom Wilson had hold of it, and after we got down to where they hung him there was two or three hold of the rope. The last named parties, Carter and Wilson, died while at Nashville."

"There was about 35 in the whole crowd, and I positively recognize four of the defendants here as being parties there, for I talked to them. They are Garrett Johnson, Bud Morris, Bob Huffman and Sam Applewhite. I heard Arthur Clear's name called there, but I did not have any conversation with him."

"I remember that some one, I don't know who it was, was not close enough to him, had a stick and was feeling in the water at the edge of the slough for Col. Taylor's body."

"DON'T DO THIS, BOYS; LET ME DOWN."

"When they had the rope around Capt. Rankin's neck and were pulling him up, he said, 'Don't do this, boys; let me down, let me down.' He said that a couple of times."

"When we left there we came on back and got our horses and came on down the road, and some went one way and some another. The Clayton crowd left us at the forks of the road and went up the Fish Gap Hill and we came around under the bluff to Brewer's. Before we separated Garrett Johnson gave us orders for everybody to hide everything and keep quiet and not do any talking. The killing of Mr. Rankin occurred between 12:30 and 1:30 o'clock in the morning, and after leaving the horse I rode at Garrett Johnson's—it was his horse I rode—I did not get to where he stayed the balance of the night until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning."

"I heard that Sheriff Easterwood was hunting for me, and I started to Samburg and met some of the soldiers, and they took charge of me and took me to Camp Nemo."

"The first person I made a statement to about it was Gov. Patterson. I sent for him and told him I wanted to tell him about it, and when I saw him I told him I had made up my mind to tell all about the whole matter. Then he told me to tell the truth about it, and that he would give me an absolute pardon if I would do it, so I told him about the whole case and how it had been done. 'I have been willingly in charge of the soldiers since I made the statement to him, but I had made up my mind to tell him about it before I saw him.'"

This ended Fehrer's direct examination, and at the request of Mr. Pierce, Judge Jones allowed an extra half hour in the noon recess so that the attorney could confer with his clients before taking up the cross-examination.

ABOUT THE LADY DOLPHIN.

Child's Inquiry Natural, Perhaps, to One of Her Sex.

A theatrical manager at the Players' club said of the school of classical dancing that Miss Indiana Duncan conducts:

"Miss Duncan bears some striking resemblance as she converses with her child pupils. One day, preparatory to the first lesson in a dolphin dance, she delivered to her class a little lecture on this fish. She described the grace of the dolphin, and afterward she described its habits and mode of life."

"And, children," she said, "a single dolphin will have 2,000 offspring."

"A little girl gave a start."

"And how about the united ones?" she gasped."

ECZEMA ALL OVER HIM.

No Night's Rest for a Year and Limit of His Endurance Seemed Near—Overs Recovery to Cuticura.

"My son Clyde was almost completely covered with eczema. Physicians treated him for nearly a year without helping him any. His head, face, and neck were covered with large scabs which he would rub until they fell off. Then blood and matter would run out and that would be worse. Friends coming to see him said that if he got well he would be disgraced for life. When it seemed as if he could possibly stand it no longer, I used some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. That was the first night for nearly a year that he slept. In the morning there was a great change for the better in about six weeks he was perfectly well. Our leading physician recommends Cuticura for eczema. Mrs. A. G. Cockburn, Shiloh, O., June 11, 1907."

Washington Whisperings

Interesting Bits of News Gathered at the National Capital.

Guide Throttles Wolves in White House

WASHINGTON—It is a well known fact that the wolves of the White House are not to be trifled with. They are not the kind of wolves that can be easily tamed. They are the kind of wolves that can be easily killed.

The wolves were not stationary, but in actual motion. The entire affair was so realistic that some of the distinguished guests invited to witness the performance shied toward the windows, thinking they would rather chance a leap in the dark than the animals in sight.

John Abernathy, the far famed wolf killer and western guide, officiated as stage manager and did all the killing. He alone wore the mask hands that effed the panting breath of the unfortunate wolf. He has a reputation for doing this sort of thing and wanted to live up to it. He was successful.

Mr. Abernathy gave a lifelike exhibition of wolf hunting at the White House by the medium of a series of moving pictures. The slides illustrated a wolf hunt as conducted by Abernathy, who, in conquering his quarry, achieves the use of any deadly weapon.

Abernathy, who is now marshal of the state of Oklahoma, served as guide for the president on one of his recent hunting trips. Healing the value of his spectacular exploits the wolf killer recently made a prolonged excursion into the woods, taking with him the facilities for procuring characteristic pictures. The result is about 6,000 feet of moving film which graphically portray the whole contest.

The exhibition was given on a huge canvas, arranged for the purpose and among the interested spectators were Prof. and Mme. Ferrero and George Shiras III., whose achievements as a "camera hunter" have engaged the attention of naturalists.

The president fully appreciated the performance and frequently clapped his hands, saying: "Fine!" "Grand!" "Splendid!"

New Faces Seen in House and Senate

IN the makeup of the Sixtieth congress for this last short session there will be nine new faces—two in the senate and seven in the house.

In the senate Carroll B. Page has been elected by the Vermont legislature to the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Redfield Proctor, who had been temporarily filled, under gubernatorial appointment, by John W. Stewart.

The other new senator—a man whose name has figured in trans-Mississippi politics for a good many years—is Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, who takes the place of the late William H. Aldrich.

In the house the seven new men are: O. C. Wiley, Second Alabama district; Henry A. Barnhart, Thirtieth Indiana; Albert A. Eastman, First Louisiana; John P. Swaney, Second Maine; Frank E. Guernsey, Fourth Maine; Otto G. Folker, Third New York; and Charles H. Burke, South Dakota at large. Mr. Swaney takes the place of Charles E. Littlefield, for years one of the most prominent figures in the house. Mr. Littlefield resigned last spring.

The number of deaths during the present congress is three or four times the usual number for the same length of time.

The first man to fall since the opening of the Sixtieth congress was John T. Morgan of Alabama, who died June 11, 1907. A month later his colleague, Edmund W. Pettus, expired. December 23, 1907, Stephen H. Mallory of Florida passed away. His successor was William J. Bryan, who died last March. Ashbury C. Latimer of North Carolina died February 20, 1908, and March 4, 1908, Bedford Proctor of Vermont was added to the death roll. The next victim was William P. White of Maryland. The last and most illustrious of all was William H. Aldrich of Iowa, the undisputed leader of the upper house.

A noticeable feature in the long roll of deaths was the fact that most of the men who passed away were among the patriarchs of the senate. Senator Pettus was 86 years old; Senator White, 84; Senator Morgan, 83; Senator Allison, 79; Senator Proctor, 77; Senator Mallory, 60, and Senator Latimer, 57. Senator Bryan, however, was one of the youngest men in the senate. He was 32 years old when he died.

Sherman May Attend Roosevelt Church

WITH the retirement of President Roosevelt from office many people suppose that the German Reformed church on Fifteenth street will no longer be the center of interest which it now is on Sunday mornings. Interest may be lessened, but it is expected that Dr. Schick will still have a distinguished official to preach to in the person of Vice-President-elect James Schloerscraft Sherman. Like President Roosevelt, Mr. Sherman is a member of the Dutch Reformed church, an organization that has no place of worship in this city. He is a leading member of the Dutch Reformed church in his home town of Ticonderoga, N. Y., but he has never affiliated himself with any church of the capital city. It is thought that when he assumes the dignity of vice-president of the United States he will give his attention to religious matters to the extent of regularly attending divine service.

When Mr. Roosevelt first came to Washington, Dr. Schick, pastor of the German Reformed congregation, which occupied a modest little building hardly more than a chapel, wrote to him and said that as there was no Dutch Reformed church in Washington, he would be pleased if Mr. Roosevelt would worship with his flock.

Mr. Roosevelt was not then president of the United States. He wrote and said that he would come to his church, and nearly every Sunday morning he can be found in his pew taking part in the service and listening to Dr. Schick's sermons. Members of the congregation say that President Roosevelt has a liking for certain hymns and that he joins lustily in the singing of them. There is no choir in Dr. Schick's church, the music being rendered entirely by the congregation, led by the preacher.

It is thought that if Dr. Schick's attention is called to the fact that Mr. Sherman is in the same position religiously as was Mr. Roosevelt he will send him an invitation to become a member of his flock during his Washington residence.

Estimated Cost of Taking New Census

S. N. D. NORTH, director of the census, has written a letter to Secretary Strauss, his immediate superior, asking for an appropriation of not less than $14,000,000 with which to take the thirteenth census in 1910. The cost of the last census, in 1900, exclusive of the four annual investigations and two biennial reports due the same year, was $12,520,000. The director estimates that the cost of the next census, due to the fact that he now has a regularly organized office, will be only $10,000 more than the census of 1900.

If the work can be accomplished for this sum, it will be the first time in the history of the nation that a census has been taken and completed at practically the same cost as the prior enumeration. Formerly the increase in the cost of the census from decade to decade has been about 60 per cent., and on this basis the cost of the thirteenth census proper, exclusive of the four annual and the two biennial reports, would be $18,750,000, nearly $6,000,000 more than the director estimates the actual cost will be.

An important means of bringing about this saving is the fact that the bureau will build and own the necessary tabulating apparatus instead of renting it as heretofore. On July 1, 1905, the apparatus which had been used in tabulating the census of 1900 and which was owned and operated by a private company was withdrawn from the bureau of the census because the company and the director could not agree on the rental. The withdrawal of the machines compelled the director to ask congress for an appropriation for experimental work in developing new mechanisms to be owned, controlled, and operated by the government. The results of this experimental work have exceeded all expectations. The new mechanisms invented are novel in plan and design, are of greater speed and efficiency than those they supersede, and can be built and operated at a saving in money as compared with previous expenditures for this purpose.

DOESN'T WANT TO BE WEANED.

NOW FOR CONGRESS

IMPORTANT WORK BEFORE LAW-MAKING BODY.

Republican Majority Has Opportunity to Redeem Promises Made to the Voters During the Presidential Election.

With an increased majority in congress there is nothing in the way of carrying out any policy Judge Taft may desire.

The working man has a right to expect plenty of work and plenty of pay. The railroads which declared they were delaying improvements for fear Bryan would be elected have no further excuse. The manufacturers who predicted prosperity under Republican regime owe it to their several communities and to the country at large to re-establish that confidence which has been lacking since October, 1907.

On the other hand, Judge Taft's conservatism was so strongly featured during the campaign that the people look to him, with a solid Republican congress behind him, for reduction of extravagance, and a fair deal for the taxpayer, who must carry the burden.

A Republican congress can give us full information as to who stole that $28,000,000 in the Panama deal, and force the offenders to return their plunder.

A Republican congress can prevent the appointment of 98,000 civil service employees to draw $65,000,000 a year from the public pocket, and see that naval and military expenditures do not grow five times as fast as the population, which has been the case under Roosevelt.

A Republican congress can amend the tariff so that the consumer in America no longer pays more for American-made goods than the consumer in Russia or China.

It can curb the trusts and stop the railroads from favoring monopoly with rebates at the expense of the small dealer.

A Republican congress can insure healthy competition in trade, so that small manufacturing communities will become active. In Colorado, for instance, 15 smelters have been ruined by the smelting trust, which raised prices higher than ever as soon as that competition was destroyed. Mine owners and miners want those plants to be reopened. Congress can reopen them.

A Republican congress can stop federal usurpation and preserve due balance between state sovereignty and federal supremacy. It can put an end to bureaucratic administrative rulings, and preserve to the people the supreme authority which is their right.

The Republican majority can prevent the railroads robbing the people of more than $2,000,000 a year by overtaxing the post office for carrying the mails. It can give postal employees human freedom of action, and extend them decent consideration in the matter of pay and hours of labor.

A Republican congress can terminate the vicious practice of government by injunction, and enact proper laws for the protection of the working man.

Cannon's Attitude.

Whether there will be any lowering of duties that will benefit the people will depend upon the action of such men as La Follette of Wisconsin, Cummins of Iowa, and other professed reformers on the Republican side of the senate. If they vote with the Democrats for lower duties where duties can safely be reduced there may be some reductions. But Speaker Cannon is not holding out any promises, and the platform of his party does not require that he should.

The Arrogant East.

The west, pulsating with boundless industrial life, demands the removal of certain oppressive tariff schedules. The west contributes far more than the east to the sum total of national prosperity. The east says to the west: "You have the soil, the wealth creators, the mines and the railroads, but a certain proportion of your profits belongs to us. We sit in the gates of prosperity and take toll as our right."

MORALS AND THE TARIFF.

Demoralizing Effect of Two Generations of Protection.

The New York Evening Post, alluding to President Roosevelt's saying that he could never see a moral issue in the tariff, recalls an address by David Starr Jordan before the Economic congress in London last August, in the course of which he said:

"If the principles of our republic are right, then the theory and the practice of the protective tariff are wrong; its greatest evil is moral, not economic. It lies in the perversion of our theories of government, the introduction of the idea of class enrichment through legislation. Behind all discussion of sources and means of prosperity, the fact remains that Democratic justice, fundamental equity between man and man, can never be realized in America so long as any trace of the protective tariff remains on our statute books."

The Post then recalls Garfield's statement when a congressman, that service on the ways and means committee was morally depressing because of the unaccountable selfishness shown there. The Post adds that Congressman Payne and Dinkell are startled at the swinish displays made daily before the committee—which recalls Charles Francis Adams' famous characterization. The Post concludes in these words:

"Men lavoke the power of congress to increase their profits, and must their fellows, with utter unconsciousness of the disgusting spectacle they exhibit. Such has been the demoralizing effect of two generations of protection! Ordinary decency, natural shame, have been destroyed. Delegates after delegates have asked for duties which, as cross-examination has shown, are practically prohibitive. Do these men want a complete monopoly? Assuredly. Do they care nothing for the public revenue? Oh, tax something else for that; what we want is a kind of royal patent to compel our fellow-citizens to pay two prices for all of our product they buy. The protective apron is thus doing its perfect work. It is setting one class to prey upon another. It is displacing a true national sentiment by a log-rolling combination of special interests. It is turning law into injustice, and making what should be the highest expression of impartiality and equity, take on the form of gross favoritism. These are the feet of clay of the great idol which the protectionists have set up, and they make its ultimate fall certain."

The Ananias Club.

The membership of the Ananias club has been increased by the addition of two names—William M. Laffan, publisher of the New York Sun, and Delavan Smith, editor of the Indianapolis News.

The two gentlemen are perfectly capable of defending themselves. If they consider it advisable or necessary to enter defense against the accusation of their own list that already bears so many distinguished names.

But we are privileged to recall that in the case of three of the distinguished members—namely, Herbert W. Bowen, E. H. Harriman and Mrs. Hellamy Storer—there was produced documentary evidence to substantiate, support and prove their statements and contentions, and, in the case of the two last named, the documentary evidence was in the form of letters from the president and bore his signature.

People's Money Squandered.

In little things as well as in great the people's money is recklessly squandered by the present administration. Only a day or two ago the papers—to take one case—printed a dispatch from Francis Louisa, who is now in Japan as president of the American commission to the Japanese exposition. That exposition has been postponed till 1917. Louisa was appointed when it was supposed that the exposition would be held in 1912. Yet he is still on the pay roll of the government, and no doubt will continue to draw his salary for the nine years that must expire before the exposition is opened. He is performing no service to the people—can perform none. There is no reason why he should not be brought home.

Santa Claus Got Busy.

This is one Christmas that Santa Claus treated us right, alright. We got a real present—especially designed and appropriate for a bachelor. One we have wanted for a long time—and Santa finally came across. She was presented formally enough, by an eminent divine, with the words "will you keep, honor, etc." and will hereafter be known as Mrs. Speer. Santa was certainly "cuttin' up."

And at last an opportunity presents itself where we can write up a wedding just as we think it was without fear of jeopardizing business or bodily harm. In fact, for many years, we have been lying about other folks' weddings—all quill drivers do—for it is true that

"A little lying now and then Is relished by newly married men," still it does not apply to the newspaper men; as they do not confine themselves to little lying.

It was just an ordinary, quiet wedding—neither the bride or groom being of any great consequence in the social, religious, political or financial realms (we could not dare make all these denials for other folks). The bride was dressed in a tailor-made dress of some sort of off-colored stuff. She had another dress, but preferred wearing this one because she wouldn't have to change. Don't know whether she looked beautiful or not—we were watching the preacher. Hearsay testimony is to the effect that she looked about as pretty as nature would permit. The groom wore a black suit and scared look. The look was assumed. The suit was bought. We still have the suit.

After the ceremony, the newly wedded couple repaired to the depot (newly weds always "repair" to the depot), other folks just go to the depot to take a train for St. Louis, accompanied by our partner and another appropriate gift for a bachelor. The train was already taken by other people, but they were permitted to ride because they had previously arranged for transportation. As usual, a good crowd met them at Union Station.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno Stoltz, of Sturgeon, Mo. She is the best cook we ever met, and a cracker-jack housekeeper. She is a good girl in all other respects. We boarded at her home and know what we are talking about. She has all the necessary accomplishments—but more knowledge of household duties than Greek. The only "mystery" about the thing is how the groom ever got her. In an unguarded moment, he got her to promise to marry him; and that she stuck to it, even after having time to give the matter serious consideration, proves that she is an honorable girl. "She comes from a good family—as old as any of them—but if she has any relatives in the senate or penitentiary, we do not know of it. The groom is neither handsome nor accomplished; he is just a plain, every-day sort of fellow—with a lot of faults; just like some other men—down in Georgia. He has a few friends who will rejoice with him in his good fortune; a few enemies who will envy him; but the great majority of folks will not care a continental one way or another. The bride has the sympathy of her friends and relatives.

This new firm will have quarters in Hickman, corner Wabash and Carroll, if money holds out with which to purchase a camping outfit. They have established credit with the grocer for the first thirty days so don't hold back your job work and advertising on that account—now is the time it is most needed. Low prices have been abolished. Subscribe for the great religious weekly.

The latch-string will hang out to all our friends after January 15th.

"Tables groaned," runs a headline regarding the Christmas dinner. But so did many of the diners, too, after consuming turkey, cranberries, mince pie, plum pudding and nuts in quantities too prodigious to estimate.

In renewing his subscription, E. R. Gibbs, of Prairie, says: "Enclosed find one 'Sweet William' which please place to the credit of my subscription account." Here's hoping that for a hundred years E. R. will repeat the dose each year.

New Year Services.

Rev. M. L. Blaney, late pastor of Cental Church of Christ, Providence, R. I., who is returning to the States from a lecture tour in the Maritime Provinces, of Canada, has accepted the call to preach as minister of the Hickman Christian church, will deliver his first sermons Jan. 3, 1909.

Subject for the morning service: "The relation of the Church to the Redeemer." Sunday evening: "The relation of the Redeemer to those who reject Him."

The public is cordially invited to come out and hear him. Perhaps it is just what you are looking for.

An awakening spirit is needed to arouse the christian world to a sense of their religious duties. "The relation of the Church to the Redeemer" is a fruitful theme in that direction.

Plain talk on fruitful subjects. Will you be there?

Lyric Theater Opened.

D. E. Clark, manager of the new Lyric Theater, is to be congratulated on the way he has repaired the old City Hall. By a good deal of hard work and the outlay of quite a lot of money he has given to Hickman what she has needed for a long time.

Mr. Clark proposes to give to the show loving people of Hickman, high class vaudeville shows, changing the program each night.

Every citizen of Hickman should attend his shows and show appreciation for the nice opera house he has fitted up.

Night Rider Trials.

With the defense of the eight night riders' trial well under way the case has settled down into a wearisome round of cumulative testimony. The defendants are pleading not guilty and relying on alibis to escape. These alibis are to be strengthened by the testimony of scores of witnesses, most of them relatives of the defendants. All but two of the eight defendants have been put on the stand. Each of the defendants remembered distinctly many people who were in their homes the night of the Rankin murder and recalled many incidents that occurred then.

Bob Huffman, one of the accused eight, was the first witness Tuesday morning. He followed the others in his denial of ever having been a night rider or having ever joined the band in any of the raids.

Roy Ransom followed Huffman, and in turn was succeeded on the stand by Garrett Johnson, the reputed leader of riders. Both men denied any knowledge of the riders and detailed their movements the night of the Rankin murder. It is developing that there was a great deal of visiting among the Reelfoot people that night. Each defendant had company that night, out could not say when he had visitors before. Johnson stated that the night the riders met at Marsh's store to prevent a raid by Lake county men, as detailed by Frank Fehrlinger, the sheriff had authorized them together for protection. Johnson denied that anyone was masked or that the men gathered there were night riders. In fact he had never seen a night rider and would not know one if he saw him.

Hathorn-Newton.

Miss Ethel Hathorn and Ben Newton both of this city, went to Union City, accompanied by a number of their friends, Christmas Day, and were married.

Mrs. Newton's former home is in Elizabethtown, Ill., but for several months has been making her home with her sister, Mrs. Robert Patterson, of East Hickman. She is a nice young lady and liked by all who know her.

Mr. Newton, is the son of J. C. Newton, a groceryman of East Hickman, and an industrious young man. They both have a number of relatives and friends who extend congratulations and best wishes.

Mr. Ellison is known to a majority of people in this county and the above announcement will meet with the approval of all his friends.

Mr. Ellison has rented the building next to Beale's Book Store.

Joo. Cotton and family have been visiting in Union City.

The General Baptist Association of America was in session in Fulton Dec. 15-18. Twelve states were represented.

Full blooded Mammoth Bronze turkeys for sale; also, Thoroughbred Black Langshans, Buff Rocks and White Wyandottes. My birds have taken premiums wherever shown.—Mrs. Annie McDaniel, Hickman, Ky. 24-4p

A number of entertainments were given during the holidays which we are not able to report in detail this week, on account of our local reporter, Miss Frankye Reid, being out of the city. One or two of the events were written up and brought to the office, and we would have been glad had the rest of them been brought in.

One of Hickman's capitalists has recently completed a dozen houses for renting. Another has just finished six and has let the contract for six more. Still another has built three and expects to put up seven more, and another has in contemplation seven, while all over town others are building one, two or more. And still the demand continues. Every one of these houses are occupied as soon as completed. Why do these money men put so much money into investments of this character? Simply because they pay so well. It is a known fact that these investments pay these parties from 25 to 30 per cent interest. And as the indications are that our factories are permanent things, it is a safe investment also. We know of no better investment for one with a few hundred dollars than to buy a lot and build one or two houses to rent.

Christmas Arrests.

The officers had their hands full during the holidays and made several arrests, a large portion of the men arrested being charged with drunkenness and bootlegging. Joe Thompson, alias "Calico Joe" was arrested by Golder Johnson and R. L. Jackson. Thompson and Tom Harris, another negro, were partners, and when arrested had twenty quarts of whiskey on their persons, also a trunk full of whiskey at the house of Will Douglass. Before the officers arrived at the home of Douglas the whiskey had been hidden. Harris was fined $140 and sentenced to ten days in jail. Thompson was fined $25 and sentenced to ten days in jail. A big pistol was also taken from each of the bootleggers.

Deputy Sheriff Rob Golder arrested Geenie Dalton, who confessed to four cases of bootlegging.

Al Wiley was another bootlegger taken into custody during the holidays.

All the lawbreakers were relieved of pistols of large calibre and the latest patterns, which fact bears out in making the statement that "pistol toting" should be broken up.

Will Swift returned last night from Mayfield, Ky., where he spent the holidays with friends.

Adjudged Insane.

A most pathetic case was that of Mrs. Dove Jewell, of near Jordan this county, who was tried at court house in Fulton last week by twelve jurymen to ascertain if she were insane or sane. It was found from the testimony, that Mrs. Jewell was completely out of her natural senses and she was adjudged insane and ordered sent to the hospital for the insane at Hopkinsville at once. Mrs. Jewell, who is the wife of J. Jewell, a well known and prosperous farmer of this county, some ten months ago evidenced by her actions that her mind was fast failing and lately it was thought best to have her tried for lunacy, since she appeared hopelessly insane. She has hallucinations that she is a messenger of God and other religious fantasies, and it is not believed that she will long survive.

William Whitehead died Friday at the home of his son, Dr. R. B. Whitehead, in Fulton, at 6.45 p. m. He had been confined to his room for the past two weeks of pneumonia, but his death came as a surprise to his friends, as few knew he was critically ill. Mr. Whitehead was 77 years of age at the time of his death.

Mrs. Avee Journey has been the sick list several days.

Happy New Year to all

This is our last advertisement of 1908—so we desire once more to express our appreciation of your appreciation.

We have endeavored to accommodate our Drug Store and Soda Fountain to the desire and needs of the public.

We have steadily sought to make this the most agreeable, as well as the most profitable, store in Hickman for you to shop in.

But it is to be a far greater store in 1909 just as it is far greater now than any other store in this locality. So you may continue to depend on our store as the one that deserves your patronage.

The public by its appreciation has helped to produce this modern store and we are grateful.

They have the best wishes of a host of friends in this community.

Miss Wilson Entertains.

In her usual charming manner, Miss Mabel Wilson entertained with a dinner party, Tuesday evening. Holly, mistletoe and other evergreens, were the decorations suggestive of yuletide. The color scheme of red and white was predominant in the dining room.

Dainty hand painted place cards were laid for Misses Ellison, Prather, Hubbard, Bondurant, DeBow, Wilson and Messrs. Reid, Maddox, Kennedy, Johnson, Owens and Isler.

After partaking of the elegant dinner served in six courses, the party was entertained with old fashion games and dancing.

Fell Under Train.

A. B. Blankenship of Hohenwald, Tenn., fell beneath the wheels of a moving passenger train at an early hour Dec. 24 and one foot was cut off, his wife being a horrified witness to the accident. Mr. Blankenship and family were en route to Louisville, Ky., to spend the holidays. They only had tickets to Fulton, intending to purchase tickets there for the rest of the journey. When the train stopped at the railroad crossing opposite Usona Hotel, Mr. Blankenship thought they had reached the depot and left the train. The accident happened when he attempted to get back on the train as it pulled into the depot. The injured man was carried to the office of Drs. J. R. and Horace Luten, where his crushed foot was amputated.—Fulton Leader.

Accidentally Killed.

Young Olive and Williams were the best of friends; had been raised up together, and when the horrible accident occurred Williams was almost prostrated with grief.

Christmas Shooting.

A dispute over a revolver was the cause of Ed Evans shooting Arthur Nicholson, Christmas night.

The report is that they had been gambling in the Farmers Gin building and Nicholson, who was employed as night watchman, left his gun on the desk while he made his rounds, says when he came back the gun was gone. He followed Evans who shot him when he demanded the pistol.

Evans claims he won the gun in a crap game.

Goalder Johnson and Deputy-Marshal John Wright got blood hounds and followed Evans to the house of J. T. Smithwick where he was found in bed with two other men.

Nicholson is not expected to live.

Rev. W. A. Freeman, former pastor of the First Methodist Church in Fulton and Miss Marguerite Merryman, of Waverly, Tenn., were married in the Methodist Church in that city Friday. Rev. Freeman was recently transferred to the pastorate of the Methodist Church at Humboldt.

JAPAN'S UNIQUE NEW YEAR

BY TOASHI KATO

READY FOR THE FEAST

deeply pity the superstition of the Japanese. Yet there is something very beautiful in the archaic simplicity of their faith. Lafcadio Hearn found in Shintoism Greek religion transplanted in the midst of this material century. What he read and imagined in ancient literature he really found in this Land of the Rising Sun. For all the modernization of Japan there is one spot where the hand of the dissecting science has done but little damage.

Visitors from civilized and enlightened lands can go deep into the real life of the archaic society in Japan, and in the twinkling of an eye they can come back to the luxury of the twentieth century, and this archaic society is a living one and not an artificial malature. Sympathy is aroused, as the faith is the only surviving remnant of the time-honored old religion. Political sentiment is touched, as Shintoism peoples woods, mountains, trees, rocks, rivers and sea-shores with gods and goddesses. Compassion is kindled as it is by a beautiful dawn slowly dissolving before the onslaught of the fierce daylight. No wonder, then, that Shintoism finds many lovers among westerners.

I would like to introduce the reader not indeed to the stately mausoleum and ceremony of Shintoism, but to the humble household of the common folk of Japan. January in Japan is a month of rest and festival; rest after hard work and harvest; festival as an auspicious beginning of the year.

Before the end of the old year pine branches are set up by the gateways, shrines of gods, hearth, well and other places. These pine branches, signifying constancy, are hung with a straw ring made to imitate a jewel, with rays of light radiating from it, and stuck with a dried sardine, a leaf of evergreen, pieces of paper and a bit of edible seaweed. These rings are also put on almost all representative articles of furniture and kitchen implements, and this is said "to let them take one year." (This suggests that these articles were believed once to have had life and so have felt the advance of age.)

The festival of "going over the year," or "Toshikoshi," is sometimes called "Toshitori," or "taking the year," and is a busy time for the housewife. She has to cook many different dishes, all of which have prosperous significance, besides her regular rice and bean soup.

Let me enumerate some. Soup of clam, which opens when cooked, signifies the opening out of the good fortune. Roe of herring, which is called "kazu-noko," or numerous children, forms a dish whose meaning is obvious. Health in Japanese is "manio," so beans must be eaten, as these happen to have the same sounding word for their name. Salt salmon, fish cake, pickled radish and many others must be prepared on this eventful eve, for we are going to add one whole year during the night. The kitchen is full of life, with kettles whistling and pots steaming, plates and trays all spread out. Children and even cats are very apt to be mischievous at such times, but they receive no accolade as the great festival should not be marred by discord and irritation.

When food is ready gods are served first with all these dishes, but only in miniature. Lights are put before them; sake liquor is offered in a pair of small vases, which, by the way, I have often seen used for flowers in America. Before the gods on the shelf they hang highly-colored leaflets, each with a lucky meaning. One is the god of fortune under an auspicious gem, with a bagful of gold coins, coral and other precious things. Another has a bundle of edible seaweed, which is called "kobu." The phrase "to rejoice" in Japanese is "yoro-kobu," so seaweed (kobu) means rejoicing. The last has under it a lobster. A person doubled up with age reminds one of a lobster with its doubled up waist. So the lobster quite often is picturesquely representative of "the aged of the sea."

When the family have bowed down before the gods they eat the great meal and a few rounds of sake were ceremoniously served in former days. Once you have eaten this feast you have added one year; and a child born in December is said to be two years old right after this meal. I used to be reminded by older people that I should be a better boy from the first of January, as I had added one year during that one night. They say that one night of the 31st of December is worth 60 days of usual days, and those who go to bed early this night will grow old that much in one night.

Polytheists are not troubled by a surplus of gods. The Japanese have already many gods at home and yet on New Year's day they buy printed gods. This paper is hung above the stone stove on which one cooks rice. One represents "year god," with thank offerings of rice, sake liquor, kneaded rice and regular New Year decorations of evergreen trees. The figure is Buddhist; the original Shinto god has long been replaced by a bodhisattva, showing the result of usurpation of Shintoism by Buddhism, effected by a Buddhist priest Kobo, as a means of Buddhist propagation. These offerings were once real ones, but the Japanese learned how to economize labor and expense by printing, and the goddess herself came into the picture.

Another picture is also hung before the shelf. The central figure is Prince Shotoku, the famous patron of Buddhism in its early days in Japan. A Japanese spade, stalks of rice on a tray, thresher, sake liquor and cooked rice are the offerings. A pair of foxes need a little explanation. Originally they belonged to a very popular Shinto god whose place has been usurped through the strategy of Kobo, and this Buddhist prince has been substituted. But religious degeneration has gone on further and these foxes came to be mistaken for the god itself. And Inari worship (for Inari is the name of the god) is seen nowadays in its most degraded form of fox worship.

Others are a pair of salesman's gods. Who they originally were has very little to do with the present worship. Anyhow, as gods of good luck and prosperity they are worshipped in New Year's season, and almost every shop has these idols in stock.

Early on the first of January New Year's callers begin to pour in. What do they say? With heads bowed down and hands on the sili, they mumble: "Congratulations for the opening of the new year, and pray that it will be continued in future." This phrase is so common that both sides speak at the same time, and yet both are well understood. One says: "Won't you come in?" "No," answers the other; "I have more houses to call." "Then come when you are through," and the caller goes. If the caller should come in he is sumptuously feasted with food and drink, and you see more open drunkenness on New Year's day than at other times.

Superstitious people find omens and meanings in dreams, and the Japanese must have good dreams to begin the year. For this purpose they put a piece of paper under the bed. On this paper a Japanese junk is printed, loaded with precious goods is outspread, on her deck with rigging and oars a poem is also printed on it.

A DECORATED WELL

Na ka ki va na
To no ne fu ri na
Mi na me na me
Na mi no ri fu na
O to no so ki ka na

Translated roughly, this means:
After a sound sleep of long Resting awake in bed,
I hear a cheerful sound
Of a sailing vessel
Gliding over the billows.

The poem in translation has power of calling up associations one can imagine himself being an inland man, with its words and offings, pine groves and blossoms hanging over from the shore, the sun as yet below the horizon, and in the mist the vessel gliding smoothly leaving songs of sailors behind it, away by the spring breeze. It is considered an appropriate poem to think over in the calm of the night. But this aesthetic sense is little appreciated by the West. They rather wonder at the construction of this poem, that just alike from either end, the end and go back to the same syllable by syllable, you have the same result as if you read the beginning.

Now, what kind of dream is best? First, Fuji mountain, eagle, third, eggplant, fourth, at; fifth, snakes—these are the best ones. To dream of the also auspicious. If a Japanese happen to dream he is quite like the matter. These people are not without the means of out of this misfortune. They say they had a bad dream "To the to the baki." Now they did not what "baki" was, they said that this mysterious animal of a dreamy land lived on the mountain, and had dreams were of the baki. It was a shock to the fashioned people when they told them that the teacher of the children that the baki hippopotamus and lived on the green leaves, and not on such a revelation, though, change the superstition, and still say: "To the baki," in their minds after a bad dream.

There is a record in history shows that there was a custom of selling and buying dreams upon a time there was a famous house. He was a court a maiden, and she had a dream, which she could not dream called in the help of her sister. The latter, seeing the onen of the dream, offered to dream. An old mirror was the price and the image. Meanwhile the prince changed his suddenly, as if by magic, and paid his eldest and won her hand. This prince is the Yoritomo, who founded the Shogunate, or military cy, in Japan.

Such is the story told and retold when the get together by the fire box and spend the "new night" in merriment. I hope these humble dream common folk of Japan may find a warm reception

the readers of America.

Christmas Frolics.

A very effective and practical decoration for Christmas morning is a pyramid of orange sprays of holly for a dolly, with a scarlet ribbon to the corners of the table fastened by a big bow at each corner. All the housekeeper's best efforts are expended on the dinner table, but it will be a moment to arrange this. Place holly around the bowls. By the way, a dainty way to serve breakfast is to have the juice squeezed in a plate served in a little glass which stands on a plate.

In the dining room that has to have a screen in the kitchen, there may be a very simple addition made to the Christmas decorations by holly to it, covering the original surface completely. Curtains may be treated in this way to make of color in the room or form a background for

Our Celebrations of New Year's Day

NEW YEAR is celebrated in this country at least on four different dates in addition to the regular national New Year's celebration on January 1. The foreign celebrations will of the Greeks and Russians and other nationalities which old style dates. They will Year on January 14, 13 days the New Year of the new Year, on February 13, and, later, February 14, comes the first day of the year. New Year falls nearly nine year about the middle of September the first day of the month of own, we have not yet the means nor the call for a children's afternoon on New Year's day. Still, many of the Greek families will observe this ancient custom in this country. They will have their children's afternoon. They will have their delicious New Year's pudding known as "king's pudding." In fact, in many cases the pudding will be even more delicious than it would have been in old Athens. For one of the ancient customs among the Greeks is to hide some gold coin in one portion of the pudding and he who gets the share of the pudding with the gold coin in it becomes the favorite as well as the leader of the two days' joy and sport. In this country, where gold is more plentiful than in Greece and where it is more easily earned by the Greek father, the pudding promises to contain more gold and be much more delightful to the finder of the same.

Perhaps the most unique Greek dish on New Year's eve is the roast lamb, set up in Greek style, of which each son of Hellenas must partake. The roasting of the lamb is attended with a great deal of pomp. The entire carcass of a lamb is set up on a pole and this is held over a fire until it is duly roasted. Then it is sliced and apportioned among the various persons present at the feast and the roast is eaten along with the other strictly Greek dishes and washed down with Greek wine.

Russians Like Our Food.

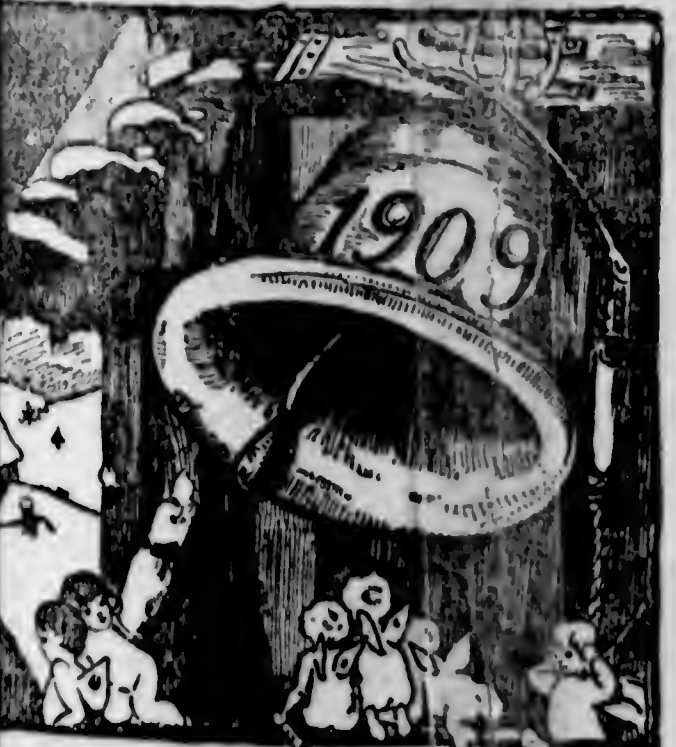

Russians in this country celebrate but one day, and they, too, attempt to produce a home atmosphere. However, home food is not thought of. The bread, the meal, and the wine of the United States are considered as good as and even far better than the products of their own land.

The Macedonians, Servians and Bulgarians celebrate the New Year, perhaps less elaborately, also on the same day as their Greek and Russian co-religionists.

The Turks celebrate their first of the year with the modesty characteristic of people who have not yet any hold on a place.

The Chinese will have their customary celebration of the Chinese New Year on February 13 with feasting and enjoyments with which the holiday is observed in the Celestial empire.

In striking opposition to the spirit of joy and happiness which pervades the New Year of the Greeks and Christendom generally is the New Year of the Jews. With the Jews, who also observe the New Year for two days, the days are not days of feasting and enjoyment but days of judgment. According to the belief of every orthodox Jew, every member of the Jewish race is tried on the New Year. The books kept in heaven are opened on that day, the record of each man for the year just ending is looked through, and taken under advisement for ten days. On the tenth day, the day of atonement, the fate of each man for the coming year is drawn up, whether he should live or die, prosper or be poor. On the day of atonement the fate is sealed and nothing can change it any more.

Turning the New Leaf

With reverent heart we turn anew
An untouched page of time.
'Tis ours to fill with noble deeds
Or stain with sin and crime;
Then ere we mar its surface pure—
Ere we begin anew,
'Tis well that o'er our last year's work
We take a short review.

Alas! we scan through tears the page
We meant should be so fair—
The blotted page where records live
Of hope and toil and care;
The page that ends the finished year
Of loss and gain and strife,
Of love and home's sweet happiness,
And peace that blesses life.

So much there is of pleasantness
Our record has to tell—
And so much done unworthily
We might have done so well!
Though mental retrospection shows
That shine exceeds the shade;
Too late we would erase the blots
Of past mistakes we made.

Then turn the new leaf. Look not back
To grieve o'er loss and pain,
But view the future's spotless page
Where we begin again;
And here resolve, by God's own grace,
That we will do our best
To keep life's record clean and pure
And trust Him for the rest.

—Margaret Scott Hall.

As the Years Mark Time for Mankind

The old-fashioned sun dial, after all, was the true time piece. That little pocket sun dial that we are told counted all the hours "when the sun shone" made the perfect record of human days. The noisy clocks and remorseless calendars that told off the worst and weariest of time's movements literally spoiled the reckoning. History began to build itself upon wretchedness of a people, and all creation to take note of time by its loss instead of its golden gain in the hours of perfect sunlight.

But the reaction has set in. It is the glad hours and not the sad ones that are to be made to count.

Let us hurry awhile
At the sign of the smile is the watchword which even pious pilgrims are sending out to upset the ancient reckoning. "Let the smile become the Christian's rather than the devil's sign," they cry in chorus, and the joy of the spirit become the measure of its days. Good Isaac Harrow's picture of the child of heaven "smiling always with a never-ending serenity of countenance and flourishing in an immortal youth" has at last taken hold of the Christian world and, spurred on by the new thought rhapsodies, promises to turn back the calendar of all our days. Counting time by heart throbs is no new method, to be sure, but the kind of heart throbs that "always find man young and always keep him so" were rather lost with the sun and nature worship of the early world.

When men went to nature for their reckoning it was no Wordsworth tells us:

They felt
As if the moving time had been A thing as steadfast as the scene
On which they gazed themselves away.

Centuries young were those children of the morning, before even the sun dial had begun to tell them of the flight of time. It remains true still that whether nature or the soul strikes the joy-note in the human breast, the poet's question rises instinctively to the lips:

O what have I to do with time,
For this the day was made.

Man Has His Choice.

Good or bad, the years come out of the bosom of the infinite hearing some boon from the eternal for man to lay hold of if he will. To choose the permanent from the mutable and fleeting is the life secret they carry, and how much hangs upon the choice eternally alone can tell. There are watchmen at the gates who assure us that each year brings gifts peculiar to itself, and one year or one world does not restore the lost offerings of the other. "Long after we have passed away out of men's sight and out of men's memory the world with something that we have left within it, will be going on still," says Phillips Brooks, "and long after the world has passed away we shall go on somewhere, somehow, the same beings still, carrying into the depths of eternity something that the world has done for us that no other world could do."

Alexander Mocked.

New worlds, with each new year, to conquer, mock the cry of Alexander and declare indeed a new kingdom wherein to reign. Closer and closer comes the promise of that awakening hour when man shall in truth become "a living soul," and "with an eye made quiet by the power of harmony, and the deep power of joy," shall "see into the life of things." How many a rose of morning and ripe fruit of the golden noon shall then return to him the science of life, which permits no lost good, nor wasted atom even, in all creation's bounds, may gloriously declare. "Where are the snows of yesterday?" whispers the tender poet, but the green of spring and the bloom of summer are nature's answer to his yearning cry.

And shall man be less blessed than nature in garnering the treasures of the year? Is that evil genius, that the ancients beheld standing at the door of the new year, forever to give lethe to drink that he may wander blindly into the unknown way, shorn of the best boons and talismans of the past? Ah, the poets who try life and love know better.

Each new year is a leaf of our love's rose; it falls, but quick another rose leaf grows; so is the flower from year to year the same, but richer, for the dead leaves feed the flame.

Thus they read the riddle and the "million centuries" sweetness that goes with it to-day. Neither is man dragged by any god or genius but the one within him, that he may "tell no tales" and carry no tokens from the departing year. What he tells to cheer or depress his comrades, what he carries to help or hinder both them and himself, is in the power of his own open-eyed choice. Perhaps the best hint that was ever offered to guide him is the brief and pointed one given by the sage, when he writes: "A man should make life and nature happier to us, or he had better never been born." It is the one pre-eminently in the air at the present moment.

It would fill all the newspapers in the land and drive the quotation-abhorring editors mad if one-quarter of the stout maxims of this nature which the times offer should demand place in their columns. Already their humorous writers are trying to demoralize them and send some of the cheerful and cheering people over to his Salanic majesty, where no doubt they are needed since the dry season set in.

Life's Logic Quaint.

If there be such a Salanic monarch, probably he loves the cheerful slimmer just as heaven must love the cheerful saint. Yet the logic of life is against him. The smile is not legitimately the devil's sign. It is the pessimist who is playing into his hands, treating his sovereignty as if it could overthrow heaven's and all the power of the Eternal Goodness. To act as if they had a faith worth smiling over would seem to be the attitude of men who believed in a sovereign of love and omnipotence rather than one of malice and black arts, and it may be that the Christian world is at last finding it out. Certainly the Gospel evangel "Rejoice, rejoice!" is sounding anew through all the realms of Christendom and becoming a part of culture and philosophy everywhere. Fuller's counsel: "Be happy in the present moment and put not off being so to a time to come, as though that time should be of another make from this," prevails in the intellectual as religious world, and promises to show "life whole" to more than a handful of seers and sages.

"Sammy," said his mean uncle, "how would you feel if I were to give you a penny?"
"I think," replied Sammy, "that I should feel a little faint at first, but I'd try and get over it."

Another Crop Coming.
Louie is the brightest youngster in the South side. If you doubt this ask Louie's father. According to the same authority Louie's mother consented to the sacrifice of his curls recently and he was taken to the nearest barber shop. He was left unguaranteed while the deed was being committed and the horrid barber—just think of the poor mother's feelings—used the clippers. So when Louie's father returned for him the boy proudly exhibited a hairless poll for his inspection.

"Well," exclaimed the father, "he didn't leave much."
"No," chirped Louie, "but it'll grow out again all right, 'cause he left the seeds in."—Kansas City Times.

Must Have Meant Him.
"I wish I knew," said Cholly Saphend, "if I have any show of winning Miss Roxie Swellman."

"Aw, really? What did she say?"
"She said nobody was good enough to be her husband."

Are You Regular?

If you are not, it is a sign of disease, a sign of some hidden much future suffering.

Many thousands of weak, irregular, suffering women have, in

For almost 2 weeks I could not pains and am in very good

"The year lies white in the distance,
Like snow that no step has marred.
And we look at its shining surface
As though through a window barred.
And we wonder what life has done
Since we last looked on the snow,
Just as we watched and wondered
A year ago."

"Since then so many footsteps
Have fallen and shuddered past,
That the white perfection of promise
Is now scattered and dark at last;
But the new drifts from the pathway
To cover the blackened snow,
And the New Year comes in its beauty
As it came a year ago."

NEW YEAR REVERIES.

If you find it so difficult to keep your New Year's resolutions, perhaps it would be a good idea to make a few bad ones this time, for a change. For instance, you might resolve to be cross to your wife (if you have one) every day during the year, and then give her gentle words and loving kisses instead. You can thus be consistent with your past record, and possibly be a better man when another year rolls around.

A new year is here. It is a time for invoice. Business men take an invoice of their stock. Wouldn't it be business for you to take one of yourself. Life, each life is a business. Have you gained or lost last year? Have you used the talents that have been given you so as to gain other talents. Is there any prospect of your being placed over ten cities or five cities or one city?
Have you declared any dividends in the way of loving and helping others, and have you added anything to the capital stock of your character?
These are pertinent questions that press us all for an answer. Let the result of the self invoice be a spur to us in living the coming year, or a cause for great congratulations as we review the past and go forth to build "more stately mansions" for the future.

Though times and seasons are not as important as many would have us think, still nearly every thoughtful person at the coming new year remembers how old he is and wishes he were not quite so old. Let us turn our minds away from the tabernacle of flesh, the least real thing in our lives, and think a little of the inward growing old. For the body every added growth is almost incalculable gain. How old are we?
How much older than a year, two years, ten years ago? How much quicker to recognize the divine voice? How much stronger our hands and clearer our voice against evil? How much swifter our feet to bear the message of good will to men? How much gain has there been in power and willingness to serve? How much more faithful are we in the chaos of small and common duties and cares? How much truer are we in friendship, warmer in the home loves, more patient with the mistaken and the bad?

The pessimist delights in derision of the good resolutions which mark the celebration of New Year in the minds of many people. Shame upon the man or woman who would dull the bright ambitions and desires for the better of any human being! But there is little time to give to habitual mourners and augurs of evil. The new year will be what we make it, so far as our individual lives are concerned, and the man or woman who resolves to be happy in a healthful, unselfish way, is taking the first road toward happiness.

We are all after happiness. In one way or another. Even the recluse, even the martyr of old, were on the endless search for happiness, though the joy of heaven rather than that of earth was the goal fixed upon in the eyes of those who sacrificed the present for the future. Eternal happiness was what they desired.
Unselfish happiness is always waiting right around the corner if we will only take our eyes off the far distance and look nearer home. The resolve to make next year a happy one for those nearest us will bring a good deal of real joy and satisfaction to the maker of the resolution, if he holds out well.

The first of January is the initial day of the year, and as such is honored by a multitude of observances, chief among which are the New Year calling customs, the interchange of gifts, the cordial greeting, "A Happy New Year," and the demonstrations attendant upon the contemplative habit of seeing the old year out and the new year in. There are two great reasons why the time should be, if not cheerful, at least tranquil.
If the old year has brought sorrow and desolation, and hung crape on our doors, the new year will bring us the leaves of healing, and we are glad to part with the one and welcome the other. If, on the contrary, the old year has brought us only joy and comfort, we part from him sor-

The Newness of the Year

APPLY New Year! The glad greeting rings out on every hand. A new twelve month has been ushered in with all its mystery of "the things which are to be."
We need then for ourselves and for others to put the emphasis upon the word "new" rather than upon the term "year." That another year has come is relatively unimportant. The stress is to be laid not on the quantity but on the quality of one's life. All that an earnest soul can do is to live each day of the new year by itself, as it comes in its turn, trying, if so it may be, to put a month's effort in one day, and a day's effort in a single hour. The time is short, and it remains that all who know Christ and partake of his gift of new life should be diligent always, watch unto prayer and boast not themselves of the morrow. Sufficient unto each day is the burden and blessing thereof.

The newness of the new year is essentially a newness of spirit. A new man will always enjoy the new year.
When another January arrives it is distinctly the time to slough off the old and to put on the new. There is an old nature to be discarded, and a new spiritual manhood to be assumed.
The trouble with many people, however, is that they try to remake and to reform themselves, forgetting that a few good resolutions, more or less loosely kept, can at best only touch the outside and possess no interior efficacy in the recesses of the spirit.
The new man who is really worthy of the name is the new man in Christ Jesus. Where Jesus is there is always purity of experience, renovation of the moral nature, freshness of hope and a resiliency of elastic joy. It is not necessary to wait until the first of January in any approaching year to win the wisdom of such a heavenly faith or to experience the benefits of such a spiritual quickening. The promise of God is now, to every one that believeth. Each morning may be a resurrection day, each evening a time of golden promise, yet not as fading, as the sunset. The New Year joy is for all of life, all the time.

It is stimulating and encouraging to feel that a brand new year is offered for happy employment, and that the old records with their motley pages, rowful, but meet his successor with ardent hope that he, too, comes with blessing. The sober jollity of New Year's day is always of an impressive nature. It is like standing for one brief moment on the threshold between time and eternity. Here is the world we know—yonder the world that is new and untried.

Another year is drawing to a close, and we shall, in all human probability, pass it and struggle on the next. As we sit at our desk and pen this short epistle to the young, wonder if anything we may write will cause them to think more seriously of all life means to them and the brief period that is given them to improve it. The boy makes the man, the girl the woman. My boy, how do you want to be remembered by the people after you are gone, as a Lincoln or as a Booth? My girl, what position do you wish to occupy in the hearts of the people with whom you have lived? You are the moulders of your own destinies.

You can make them what you will.
It rests with you whether your name shall go down in history honored or cursed, or whether it shall pass into oblivion as soon as the earth has hidden your mortal remains. Now is the time to choose. There are only two roads to travel: one leads to happiness and honor, the other to sorrow and degradation. We suppose you want to travel the first mentioned. Are you doing it? As the apprentice works at his task and each succeeding day turn out work more perfect than on the preceding one, so we should make each succeeding year of our lives more perfect. Are we doing this? Do we take time during the hurry and bustle of the holiday season to review our work of the year and see where we have made mistakes, jotting them down in our memory so as to be avoided in the future? That boy could never have become a perfect workman if he did not avoid the mistakes of yesterday.
We must never make the same mistake twice, and in order to guard against doing so, we must look back and find the mistakes we have made.
Will you do this, boys and girls?
Will you rest your play and jollity for just a little and stand and recall those indiscreet words, those hasty actions that will prove stumbling blocks in the way of your becoming strong, helpful men and women, honored and loved? Will you give your noble character? Will you do it?

Danger in Delay.

Kidney Diseases Are Too
Common for Hickman people to neglect.

The great danger of kidney disease is that they get a firm hold on the sufferer recognizes them. It is gradually undermined. Back ache, headache, nervousness, soreness, lumbar, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession.
Do not neglect your kidneys. Cure them with the certain and Hickman.

Clay Puckett, living in Hickman, Ky., says: "I am using Doan's Kidney Pills at the present time and find them an excellent remedy.
My kidneys bothered me out and in over a year. At times I was from sharp twinges throughout my back, and it hurt me severely to stoop to pick anything up. The tortures of my kidneys were also terrible, causing me considerable annoyance. Some time ago I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, and decided to give them a trial, procured a box at Heim and Ellison's drug store.
I am now using the second box.
I am delighted with the result.
My general health has greatly improved and I gladly give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement."
